“A LITTLE PROGRESS EACH
DAY ADDS UP TO BIG RESULTS.”

SATYA NANI

Imperatives

- An imperative sentence is used to give a command, or order.
- An imperative normally misses a subject, though all other parts of the sentence are present.
- The verb is identical to a 2nd person, present tense form, without endings of any kind.
- With negative imperatives, the auxiliary do is used, as in "Don't drink the water".
- There are no different tense forms of imperatives.

Use

- Advice
- Instructions
- Invitations
- Orders
- Requests
- Offers
- Warnings Directions
- Informal requests
